

Pandemic Learning Trends

What sort of information do people need during a pandemic?

The stories we are receiving fall on a continuum between things people think are unlikely to make a difference (for whatever reason) and things that could change everything. Also, “information” is one of the wants/needs that has surfaced because of COVID. What sorts of information do people need, and what sorts of information are they already sharing, that could make a difference?

Please consider sharing an example of your everyday with us, whether it is at work, at home, or in community. Also, please let us know if you would like to join a sense-making session.
