Chinese Canadian Museum receives RBC Foundation Community Spaces Grant to become fully accessible

The Chinese Canadian Museum in Vancouver's Chinatown is making its historic Wing Sang building more accessible with support from the RBC Foundation Community Spaces Grant. Upgrades include accessible washrooms, elevators, ramps, lowered service counters and automatic door-opening buttons. The museum is also the first in Canada to install a hearing assistance loop. These improvements earned the museum the Rick Hansen Foundation Accessibility Certification, helping create a more welcoming space for visitors of all abilities.
